VINTAGE

2013

REGION

Waiheke Island

ALCOHOL

14%

SWEETNESS

Dry

FERMENTATION/AGING

Small open top fermenters, matured in French oak barriques

CELLARING POTENTIAL

This wine will reward cellaring for up to 10 years, or will be thoroughly enjoyable upon release.

TASTING NOTE

Leather, sticky date pudding, tōtara and black doris plum aromas wholeheartedly fill the nose. This is a powerful, complex beauty. The palate is rich, with great tannin structure and a marvellous juiciness which persists through to a lengthy and nourishing finish.

FOOD MATCH

Slow roasted short beef ribs with plenty of thyme.

VINEYARDS

This wine is produced from grapes grown on five hillside vineyards located at the Western end of Waiheke Island. The sun-drenched slopes and clay soils provide the ideal terroir for producing ripe, flavoursome Bordeaux variety grapes. The vineyards are managed using traditional techniques including shoot thinning, yield management, and hand leaf-plucking. The yield from these vines is low, typically 1.5 to 2 tonnes/acre, resulting in excellent concentration and length in the finished wine.

WINEMAKING

The grapes were hand picked and gently crushed into small open top fermenters. During fermentation, hand plunging was used to ensure the gentle extraction of colour and tannins from the fruit. After a two week period of post-fermentation maceration, the free run wine only, was run to French oak barriques for 16 months maturation. The final blend is a reflection of both the growing season, and the character each variety contributes to make an elegant, balanced wine.
